In that moment,
I saw pain and powerlessness reflected in his eyes.
I suddenly want to use my hands
healing his wounds.

Arthur hasn't lived with his father since he was young. So he must've really missed his family.
It's just he uses his cold attitude to hide his thoughts.

THEY'RE ALWAYS SHINING IN THE SKY.
BUT YOU WILL NEVER REACH THEM.

EVEN THOUGH A PERSON WITH A STRONG FIGHTING SPIRIT DOESN'T REACH AT THE END,
BUT HE'S SHOWN THAT HE TRIES HIS BEST TO MAKE HIS DREAM COME TRUE.
THERE'RE OTHER PEOPLE WHO WITHDRAW THEIR HANDS EARLY IN THEIR LIFE.

What about me?
Would I be able to help him?

IF YOU WANT TO STAY NEXT TO ME, YOU'RE STILL SO FAR BEHIND.
TOMORROW, YOU SHOULD CONTINUE TO PRACTICE YOUR SKILLS!

BUT, IF IT'S NOT BECAUSE OF ME, I THINK SOMEONE WOULD HAVE ALREADY BEEN A ROASTED PORK ...

SHUT YOUR MOUTH! STUPID! I'M GOING TO WATCH YOU LIKE A HAWK TOMORROW!
WHY?
BECAUSE YOU'RE A SLOW LEARNER, IDIOT!
YOU THINK YOU'RE QUICK AT LEARNING?
OF COURSE!
AH, BUT THERE'S A PERSON WHO STILL HAVEN'T MASTERED EATING PEAS YET ...
ARTHUR-- LOST
LIN LING-WON

We're sitting on the grass together. The silver light of stars reflect on us and we're glowing like a clear brightest point. It's like a perfect dream.
Perhaps one day he can grasp all the stars.
But, what about... me?
It seems my dream is out of my reach but at the every least, if I have courage then would I be able to do it?
